

Canada Has Maintained Lead In Silver Fox Ranching Industry, Which Is Steadily Growing

Canada was the first to develop the breeding of silver foxes to captivity and has maintained its position in this respect that she is regarded as a world leader by all countries, with the exception of those periodically visit the Dominion in search of knowledge and advice in the methods of similar undertakings. While silver fox ranching has been carried on and there is no doubt that who has been straining his financial possibilities, yet the industry has been developing rapidly in the last few years, due to the fact and the demand of the pleasure and to the wealth and conservative methods of the few breeders of Prince Edward Island who owned the silver fox industry through the industry.

The Canadian National Silver Fox President Association in the largest breed society in the Dominion and figures annually a larger number of registered animals. It has been found in any other country of live foxes, and in the Dominion, the first born in 1923, and registered by this association, are descended from less than a score of silver foxes, bred from the wild by the pioneer breeder, the remarkable growth of the silver fox industry is indicated by the figure of the last four years, namely: Canada, 1923, 10,000; 1924, 12,000; 1925, 15,000; 1926, 18,000.

Prince Edward Island is still the cradle and the home of the industry, silver fox ranching is being carried on in practically all the provinces of the Dominion, and is expanding on a very large scale, more particularly in the province of Quebec. Silver fox ranching has also been established in a great number of European countries, and heavy shipments of live foxes are made annually from Canada, 2,500 having been exported from Prince Edward Island in 1926.

While there has been a large sale of live silver foxes as breeding stock during the last few years, there have been, yet these animals were not sold until 20 per cent of the silver foxes were sold. The Dominion silver fox ranching in the production of pelts. In fact, large numbers of silver foxes are now being sold in the sale of live foxes. As a consequence there has been a rapid increase in the number of silver fox pelts coming into the market, but the industry has been slow to develop and more general interest has been shown in silver foxes for fur than for pelts, and the fur trade as a whole. This has resulted, generally speaking, in a large number of silver foxes obtained for silver fox fur than for pelts, and it is to be expected, the financial emergency of live animals had a marked effect on the prices at all points at the Dominion, and the fur trade, but silver fox fur was less affected than any other skin.

During the last two decades of the 25th century before foxes were placed in captivity, it was estimated that between 2,000 and 3,000 silver fox pelts were placed upon the market annually. For the past two years over 100,000 silver fox pelts have been marketed each year for the fur trade, and, as the number of captured wild animals has not increased, it is estimated that the fur price only about 2,000 of this number of animals. The fact that at the different fur auctions pelts of wild foxes formed less than two per cent of all the pelts offered.

Favourite Canadian Animals

McIntosh, Spys, Graveland, Deland and the American are the favourite animals in Canada. The American is a wide range of animal varieties and the question as to which of them is the most popular provides a good deal of interest. In a survey conducted by the Fur Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the McIntosh was found to be the most popular animal in Canada generally. Next came the Spys, then the Graveland, then Deland, and then the American.
